Caylee is a dedicated attorney who combines her disciplined work ethic as a former student-athlete with her legal practice. She focuses on a variety of defense matters, including personal injury, premises liability, products liability, and automobile liability, while also bringing experience in Indiana’s environmental regulations, insurance, and defense practices.

She earned her J.D. and graduate certificate in Natural Resource and Environmental Law from Indiana University Robert H. McKinney School of Law, where she swam Division I during her first year of law school. During law school, Caylee also served on the executive board of the Environmental Law Society and competed in the National Environmental Moot Court Competition at the Pace University Elizabeth Haub School of Law in New York.

Her diverse legal experience includes the environmental practice of a prominent defense law firm in Indianapolis, Office of Legal Counsel at Indiana Department of Environmental Management, and the National Collegiate Athletic Association (“NCAA”). Outside of work, Caylee enjoys staying active, playing piano, traveling, and spending time with her friends and family.
