Harry L. Durden is a litigation attorney in KPD's Chicago office practicing throughout the State of Illinois. He is a skilled trial attorney, victoriously chairing more than 20 jury trials and more than 30 arbitrations. He focuses his law practice on professional liability matters, specifically legal malpractice and accounting malpractice, and director and officer matters, as well as error and omission claims. He works with insurance carriers, TPAs, and corporate clients on complex and commercial general liability matters, subrogation claims, employment practices liability, occupational accident defense, third-party discrimination claims, and fiduciary matters.

As a multifaceted trial attorney, Harry brings his previous experience working as a Senior Claims Examiner and Senior Underwriting Counsel to aid his clients in evaluating potential risks and analyzing loss control. His wealth of experience with both domestic and international corporate clients include contract analysis, corporate governance, and regulatory compliance, providing strategic guidance while navigating complex legal and operational challenges. His meticulous approach ensures clients achieve their business objectives and maintain compliance with industry standards.
